

November 9, 2020

Hello everyone,

As we move into this second week of November, we are coming to the end of what, when I was growing up, my family called St. Martin's summer (due to its proximity to the feast of St. Martin of Tours). The beautiful weather hasn't seemed to help the situation in our local community, however, and the positivity rate in our city remains high.

Here at our Home we have one new case of the coronavirus among our staff. The individual was asymptomatic and her condition was detected through routine testing. That's why we keep it up for everyone around our house.

Because of the situation in the local community we aren't able to have indoor visits, as you know, and the weather is going to be cooler going forward. We are looking into the best way to continue offering the opportunity for live encounters with loved ones and will keep you posted on the progress.

Thank you once again for all of your support. As our country goes through a time of transition, let us all keep each other close in prayer and work together towards the future.

God bless,

Sr. Julie, lsp
