Hello everyone,

On this Christmas Eve we are happy to be able to tell you that this past week's testing here at our Home has revealed no new positive cases of the coronavirus. We are currently doing staff education sessions regarding the vaccine and, as you know, we are gathering consent forms from the Residents and you. We expect to receive a call early next week to set up the dates for vaccine distribution. Of course, as more information becomes available we will share it with you.

In the meantime we have been doing all we can to brighten the Residents' days, including a staff Christmas parade yesterday. Employees wore their favorite ugly Christmas sweater or donned reindeer antlers, elf hats, etc., and handed out Christmas candy while Christmas music played over the PA system. Today we will distribute presents to the Residents – Santa and two elves will be there with their sleigh, which will be pulled by Lincoln the red-nosed rein-dog. It should make for a fun afternoon!

We wish all of you a most blessed Christmas season, with every wish for a better New Year to come!

God bless,
Sr. Julie, lsp
